Explanation

15,596 youth and adults received 6-8 hours of relationship skills training: 225 couples, 700 singles, 13,771 middle and high school students, and 900 employees (job readiness training through relationship skills). Through the Community Centered Healthy Marriage and Relationship federal grant, CRE forged partnerships with military base leadership to provide workshops and retreats to military families. Also partnered with Goodwill Industries, Adams County HHS, Arapahoe County HHS, The Denver Rescue Mission, Adams and Boulder County Foster Care families, and many community-based organizations to serve program participants with relationship education and training. CRE staff has been featured guests on the radio and other media regarding relationship issues in Denver and across the country. CRE continues to improve and update the relationship education curriculum called REAL Essentials to encompass the most current research and best practices. In addition, CRE staff is reaching out to other non-profit organizations and schools nation-wide to assist them in implementing the curriculum, so CRE has an impact on youth throughout the country.
